“ Ray was more like an older brother than an uncle to me. I can remember him as a teenager. He caught me sharing a cigarette when I was quite young. I don't remember when, but he was still helping on the farm. He properly scolded me, and I never heard another word about it—from anybody.

He lived with us for a short while in 53 or 54. He wasn't feeling well one night and couldn't sleep. I too was up for some reason (we were sharing a room, so if he was up, I was up). I asked him if he was 'worsen' tonight? He assured me "There ain't no such word as worsen!" Okay, I can't be entirely certain that he actually said "Ain't" but I remember the 'worsen' part clearly.

For a while in the early 70's I worked with him in the woods. One day when we broke for lunch he returned to his pickup to find he had left the back open (why not, we were in the seclusion of the deep forest) and his Styrofoam lunch box was broken to pieces. The contents were strewn about the area. Fortunately, the bear only took some and graciously left some behind. Ray kept a good humor about it, as he did most things in life.

“ I remember the good times of playing farmers dice, playing the card games of 7 up, 500 rummy, putting puzzles together even though my brothers hated the puzzle thing, the marble games, and thankful for all the teachings or morals, values, hard work, determination, courtesy, respect, consideration, to be kind, and to always treat others the way GOD wanted you to treat them, according to the Bible dad was strict but he always meant well.
