“ Barb was one of the first people I met , on a Huts paddle, when I moved here three years ago. She so welcoming to the new person and went out of her way to call and see if I wanted to follow her to the put-in rather than getting lost on unfamiliar roads. She liked to get right on the water - I have a vivid memory of Barb stepping into her boat and immediately rolling over, coming up soaked and laughing, and getting right back in, of course. She was game for anything, whether it was kayaking, showshoeing, or as official insider tour guide through Flambaurama. The happiest I saw her, though, was when Josphine was born - she loved showing us pictures and telling about the latest visit. I admired Barb for her generous, honest nature, and will remember and miss her quick laugh. My thoughts are with you all.

“ I remember Barb was a strong woman. Someone who was confident and real. She had a great laugh and smile, and it was a pleasure knowing her for the little time that I did. She loved her family very much especially her granddaughter, Josephine. I enjoyed visiting her at her home in Park Falls during Laura's baby shower a couple years ago and again when she came down for Josie's baptism. Barb will be missed and will be in my prayers. God bless her and her family.

“ Barb was such a genuine lady, that we just sort of gravitated toward her as natural movement. Then of course the treasure of such a vibrant personality in which to discover coupled with THAT smiling face, and well, I just began calling her, affectionately, 'Barbie Doll!' This worked out well but then it was just shortened to 'Doll' and I think this was even better as this is how many of us felt about Barb Morgan! It really takes a brave person to jump in a kayak and go hit the north fork in high water. Barb was not bashful about this. Late this spring I wanted to visit and offer encouragement after hearing about the illness. Barb loved her family so much. As her wisdom was always forthright, she reined in a bit saving her energy for them. Bravo Doll! WE miss you Barb! And, we cannot mask that we are feeling sad.

“ Barb was a very dear friend, generous and honest, a straight shooter. We got to know her through our HUTS! kayak and canoe club, but were friends well beyond that. She is deeply missed and will be more than fondly remembered.

Barb was my Blood Mobile buddy. Loved to sit & chat with her. I will continue to miss her & think of her fondly when I donate at the blood drive. She gave right up until she couldn't anymore. So Barb. :)
