“ Eddie, Unfortunately I wasn't able to attend your celebration of life. I would like to take some time and thank you for the opportunity to be friends and reminisce a little.

You spent a lot of time on the farm hanging out doing chores, both of us avoiding chores, fishing, bird hunting and oh yes cutting boughs while staying in the old mouse shack. I can remember Bill Kruger more than once counseling us for putting the boughs in the river to keep them fresh. Little did we realize the bundles filled with mud! The farm was your home away from home. Even though our lives took different paths and journeys we remained friends. I thank you for those memories. Again, we are on different journeys. No earthly being can possibly know the journey you are on but we can all be assured it is with your love Wendy. For those family and friends that mourn your passing I would quote a part from the movie Joe Black. As death (Brad Pitt) was walking Anthony Hopkins to the other side, Hopkins stops and asks death. "Should I be afraid?" Death replies, "Not for a man like you (Eddie)."

Ed, thanks for your time here on earth. You were a friend to many and an asset to God's creation. You and Wendy enjoy the new horizons whatever they may be. God speed to both and have no regrets.

“ I'm so bummed to hear of Eddie's passing. He was such a super nice guy and always jovial. Whenever I ran into him when I came back home to visit, he'd yell "Playtex!" with a big ol smile on his face and we'd share some laughs together. He gave my mom that nickname back in the 80's when he helped my Dad load semi and saw my mom making wreathes with big ol playtex gloves on. (the boughs were wet) My Pops also went hunting for the last time with Eddie before my Dad got sick. They both got a big ol turkey down in southern Wisconsin. Eddie was a good egg and will definitely be missed.

“ Met Ed in late 1984 and was honored to share many a great time with him until the early 1990's. Always enjoyed our chats...pool games...knocking about in the woods for grouse, deer and bear. Always kept in touch with Ed because he was one of those people that you didn't want to let go of. I thank God for having known him and that he took him home without pain or suffering. The world just lost a good man :^(

“ The Bormans knew Eddie as a hard working semi loader when my dad, Rich Borman needed some muscle to get the trees and wreathes to Chicago. As an adult I knew Eddie as a wonderful father two his two kids. Jessica babysat my kids. And Joe and Brett were in school and Boy Scouts together. Eddie was involved with the Boy Scouts. He is a true Gliddenite who cared about the community. He will be missed. Hugs to his family. May God bless you with peace as you lay to rest this wonderful man.
