“ My friend Mark was a light hearted soul and he could always make me laugh. I met him in the military as we were both being trained to be X-ray technicians back in the early 80's. We stayed in touch the entire time after. We played music together, played online games together and visited each other's homes about 8 years ago. Mark will be missed; the world seems a little colder now.

He had a fear of bridges and one time he had to scooch on his butt across this little short bridge that one could not walk under without bending over to do so. It cracked me up--but I suppose it wasn't nice to laugh at his phobia. You should have seen his face as we approached the Narrows bridge that is over the Puget Sound (you might remember the Galloping Gerdy film from the 20's(?)). He had to close his eyes and wait for me to tell him it was over. Classic Mark! Love you Bro!

Our condolences to the family. Give each other a hug from us.

“ Marky...yes, you will always be Marky to me, too. As the eldest of the Prohaska cousins, I also recall happy get-togethers at your huge two-story house in South Milwaukee. You were the fastest little guy! Thank you for staying in communication with your Milwaukee family. Congratulations on your long career in health care. Sad as we are that your retirement will not be spent here on earth, we have faith that it will be gloriously spent in heaven with many who love you dearly up there! God Bless You Marky!

*With love,
Cousin Betsy*

“ Marky, yes....you will always be known as Marky to me. I will always remember the great get togethers we had in South Milwaukee at your home. Being the youngest of the Prohaska kids I was always so in awe of you, and I can say I always looked up to you. I thought it was always so great to listen to you play the guitar in the basement as I sat in played space invaders on the TV. Let's not forget all the fun in the pool and at night playing kick the can. Now that you are in heaven, Please give a big hug to your mom and dad, Janetteso, my mom dad, and grandma and grandpa for me. Please let them know how much I miss them and love them. Be at peace my dear cousin and may the Lord's Perpetual light always shine on you. Until we meet again all my love.
