“ Tim was a wonderful guy to be around and a great fun-loving and caring friend. We met about five years ago through Matt when we were partnered up for dart league in Madison. Tim was one of my first friends in Madison--it was one of the highlights of my week to see him and Larry Nelson every Thursday night and use the occasion of our mutual hobby to joke, share stories about our lives, and just support one another in everything we were encountering in life. Tim talked with so much love and enthusiasm about his (at that time) soon-to-be-wife wife and soon-to-be first child. Since we moved to different parts of the state, I've missed talking with him about life and sharing all the great laughs we had whenever we'd get together. He was an honest, caring, quick-witted friend and someone who I know deeply valued the relationships in his life; really understood how invaluable the gift of life was. In the end, I know that what meant the most to him was the family he was building. He had so much love, such a great wry sense of humor, and I've really never met a more genuine, down-to-earth person. I will miss him deeply and send my heartfelt thoughts, condolences and love to his family. Your Tim was a very special guy, and I will never forget him.

All my love,
Sam Adams
